Fiction

Grace Park and Shawn Matthews' lives are torn apart by violence and racial tensions in 2019 Los Angeles. Grace is forever altered after witnessing the shooting of her mother, and Shawn is sent reeling after being identified as a suspect in her shooting. Grace is shocked to learn of her mother's past involvement in a gang and that the 1991 murder of Shawn's 16-year old sister, Ava may have been the reason for retaliation. Steph Cha unravels secrets that have the power to link or tear apart the families just as the city is shaken by another shooting. A perfect mix of police procedural and journalistic style, Cha's novel is an important story about race, loss and forgiveness that you won't soon forget.

Famed choreographer Twyla Tharp has a list of accomplishments and awards a mile long. One of the biggest might be that at 78 she continues to work and create at the same breakneck pace that she did in her 20s. But how? 'Keep It Moving' is her response to that question – how? Each chapter is infused with tidbits about how to make the most out of the rest of your life. From questions about how well you take care of your body, to insights about how she stays motivated, all information is presented in a very matter of fact, straightforward way. There's no room for judgement, only improvement. Twyla has learned what works for her, and hopefully you'll learn a little bit more about what works for you.
